

Homophones

There, Their, They're

Homophones sound the same, but mean different things. Circle the word correct homophone and write it on the line.

- _____ were many people at the party. (they're, there, their)
- I left my backpack over _____ by the door. (they're, there, their)
- When I arrived at school, many of my friends were already _____. (they're, there, their)
- _____ going to do homework after school. (they're, there, their)
- _____ is a hold in my pocket! (they're, there, their)
- Pete and Jenny are on _____ way here. (they're, there, their)
- I can't wait to see _____ new puppy! (they're, there, their)
- I'm not sure if _____ planning on going to the park with us. (they're, there, their)
- _____ is a gas station on the corner. (they're, there, their)
- _____ not going to come on vacation with us. (they're, there, their)
- _____ still waiting for the teacher to pass out report cards. (they're, there, their)
- Was _____ first pet a dog or a cat? (they're, there, their)
- _____ was not enough room at the table, so I sat by myself. (they're, there, their)
- _____ hamster's name was Snickers. (they're, there, their)
- When we finished our tests, we sat _____ quietly. (they're, there, their)

Homophones

There, Their, They're

Homophones sound the same, but mean different things. Circle the word correct homophone and write it on the line.

- _____ were many people at the party. (they're, there, their)
- I left my backpack over _____ by the door. (they're, there, their)
- When I arrived at school, many of my friends were already _____. (they're, there, their)
- _____ going to do homework after school. (they're, there, their)
- _____ is a hold in my pocket! (they're, there, their)
- Pete and Jenny are on _____ way here. (they're, there, their)
- I can't wait to see _____ new puppy! (they're, there, their)
- I'm not sure if _____ planning on going to the park with us. (they're, there, their)
- _____ is a gas station on the corner. (they're, there, their)
- _____ not going to come on vacation with us. (they're, there, their)
- _____ still waiting for the teacher to pass out report cards. (they're, there, their)
- Was _____ first pet a dog or a cat? (they're, there, their)
- _____ was not enough room at the table, so I sat by myself. (they're, there, their)
- _____ hamster's name was Snickers. (they're, there, their)
- When we finished our tests, we sat _____ quietly. (they're, there, their)