

Summer Reading

At Home and in the Classroom

Dear Teachers and Families,

Welcome to the summer reading bundle! These worksheets are jam-packed with ways to keep kids reading all summer long. Summer reading is an awesome way to keep students' brains flowing, learning new vocabulary, and improving literacy skills.

Classroom Use:

- Before the school year ends, have students begin their goals worksheet to set expectations for summer reading. Then, send them home with the rest of the bundle to help them keep track of their progress.
- Use the reading log in your classroom to keep track of weekly reading assignments. There's even a version with a section for parent signatures.
- The bingo card and reading goals worksheets make for great classroom tools to encourage reading throughout the school year.

At-Home Use:

- At the start of the summer, encourage your child to fill out the reading goals worksheet and aim big!
- Document progress on the reading log, which is a great way to make a list of the awesome reading they're diving into or keep track of required summer reading.
- The bingo card is an awesome way to keep kids excited about reading this summer and encourage them to try new things!

The Week Junior is an awesome summer reading resource!

It's a great idea to differentiate reading materials to keep kids interested. The Week Junior is a kid-friendly current events magazine that features sections on new books and movies, sports and culture, recipes and craft projects, and so much more. There's something for every kid!

Request your free issue of The Week Junior and watch your kids dive into reading this interactive magazine!

Get my free issue of
The Week Junior!

Reading Challenge

BINGO

Directions: As you finish each reading challenge, color in that square. Have a goal to get Bingo, and then keep going to cover the entire board!

Read under a tree	Read a chapter book	Read before bed	Read a book in a series	Read wearing sunglasses
Read a magazine	Read a book about animals	Read a book that became a movie	Read during the weekend	Read in your pajamas
Read a book chosen by someone else	Read in a blanket fort	FREE SPACE	Read for over 30 minutes	Read out loud to a loved one
Read after dinner	Read a book that makes you laugh	Read a graphic novel	Read a book about the beach	Read at the park
Read a new genre	Read a picture book	Read with a flashlight	Read under an umbrella	Read poetry

Name _____ Date _____

My Summer Reading Goals

My goal is to read _____ books this summer.

New things I will try to meet my goal:

I plan to read during ... :

Books I want to read:

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

Summer Reading

At Home and in the Classroom

Dear Teachers and Families,

Welcome to the summer reading bundle! These worksheets are jam-packed with ways to keep kids reading all summer long. Summer reading is an awesome way to keep students' brains flowing, learning new vocabulary, and improving literacy skills.

Classroom Use:

- Before the school year ends, have students begin their goals worksheet to set expectations for summer reading. Then, send them home with the rest of the bundle to help them keep track of their progress.
- Use the reading log in your classroom to keep track of weekly reading assignments. There's even a version with a section for parent signatures.
- The bingo card and reading goals worksheets make for great classroom tools to encourage reading throughout the school year.

At-Home Use:

- At the start of the summer, encourage your child to fill out the reading goals worksheet and aim big!
- Document progress on the reading log, which is a great way to make a list of the awesome reading they're diving into or keep track of required summer reading.
- The bingo card is an awesome way to keep kids excited about reading this summer and encourage them to try new things!

The Week Junior is an awesome summer reading resource!

It's a great idea to differentiate reading materials to keep kids interested. The Week Junior is a kid-friendly current events magazine that features sections on new books and movies, sports and culture, recipes and craft projects, and so much more. There's something for every kid!

Request your free issue of The Week Junior and watch your kids dive into reading this interactive magazine!

Get my free issue of The Week Junior!

